College Observes Education Week

All Organizations Are Taking Part in Special Events This Week.

All the organizations on the campus will participate in the celebration of education week this week at the college. Special programs will be given in all the organizations at the request of Dr. O. Myking Mehus of the Social Science Department of the college.

Four talks will be given in The Liberal Discussion Club. Wilbur Heekin will speak on "Education and Prohibition," Russell Noblet, "Education and Disarmament," Evert Evans, "Modeling Education on Genius," Wallace Culver, "Education and The Negro."

The Jeffersonian Club members will hear Wilbur Heekin in a talk on "Thomas Jefferson and Education," and Russell Noblet on the subject, "Democratic Ideal in Education."

Talk on Child Health.

The theme for the program of the meeting of the Kappa Omicron Phi, home economics fraternity, is "What the Schools Are Helping America to Achieve in Child Health and Protection." The speakers, Miss Gladys Storey, Miss Margaret Davidson of Maryville, guest speaker and Miss Marjorie Kelley.

"New School Laws" will be discussed by Wilbur Heekin and Russell Noblet at the Law Club.

The program for the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday night includes ten scripture quotations on peace and talks. Evert Evans, Clyde Sparks and Glenn S. Duncan.

The Primary Council will present a special program on "Child Health and Protection."

The meeting of the Social Science Club and Phi Gamma Mu, national honorary social science fraternity, talks will be given by J. Harvey Croy, and by Miss Andra Brazelton. A talk on philately will be presented by J. C. Piper, of Elmo, who has a large collection.

Herbert R. Dieterich of the department of education at the college will speak to the members of Alpha Phi Sigma on "What the Schools are Helping to Achieve."

The ideals of health will be emphasized in the education week program to be given by the W. A. A. Talks will be by Miss R. Dell Chick, Miss Elizabeth Edwards and Miss Martha Stucki.

Miss Grace Shepherd of the College education department will give a world fellowship address to the members of the Y. W. C. A. at their meeting Tuesday.

Pickering High Is Winner of District Basketball Tourney

Pickering High School was winner of the Northwest Missouri District Outdoor Basketball tournament, sponsored by the College, at the College gymnasium last Friday and Saturday, New Point, last year's winner, was runner-up, losing the final game in a toss-up affair, 19 to 15.

Eighteen teams were entered in the meet, only one of the nineteen counties in the Northwest District failed to enter a champion team. The scores of the preliminary games are as follows:

Pickering, 23; Sheridan, 11.
New Point, 26; DeKalb, 4.
Stewartsville, 23; Irish Grove, 15.
Kingston, 13; Grandview, 10.
Central City, 28; Laredo, 20.
Pickering, 50; Tina, 8.
Pattonsburg, 29; Chula, 9.
New Point, 30; Mercer, 6.
Rosendale, 27; Mercer, 10.
Gilman City, 39; Holt, 15.
Kingston, 17; Stewartsville, 8.
Pickering, 27; Central City, 8.
New Point, 32; Pattonsburg, 10.
Rosendale, 10; Gilman City, 8.
Pickering, 22; Kingston, 12.
New Point, 26; Rosendale, 12.
Championship Game.
Pickering, 19; New Point, 15.

H. R. Dieterich, principal of the College High School was manager.

Commerce Classes to St. Joseph.

Classes in commerce and business administration, including classes in business law, business accounting and advanced accounting taught by E. W. Mounce, chairman of the Department, and E. L. Kelley of the faculty, left this morning for St. Joseph to visit various industries. They planned to visit Swift & Company, Cripes Bakery, Chase Candy Company, The News Corporation, Western Dairy and Ice Cream Company, and KGBX Broadcasting Company.

Plans Radio Program.

Charles R. Gardner, chairman of the Music Department of the College, is planning to give a musical program from four to five o'clock Sunday evening, November 22 over radio station KQIZ, Grant City. The men's glee club of the College will probably give some numbers as a part of the program.

College Brevities

Jacob M. Porterfield, a former student at the College, now teaching at Gower, has paid his Alumni dues. He says that news of the brilliant record of the Bears has caused him to wish to keep in closer touch with the things going on at the College and so he has ordered the Northwest Missourian.

President Lamkin has offered to allow the Bearcat football team or the Bearcat basketball team to play in a contest for charity. It is very likely that a game will be played, but definite arrangements as to opponents, time, and place have not been made.

The American Association of University Women entertained in honor of Hon. Ruth Bryan Owen, Congresswoman from Florida, with a tea at Residence Hall, from four to five o'clock Monday afternoon. Mrs. Owen, during her stay in Maryville was a guest at the home of President and Mrs. Uel W. Lamkin.

The courtesy crew furnished by the Dramatic Club for the opera "Peter Rabbit," consisted of Donald Robey of Maryville, members of the Theater Arts class and the cast of "Outward Bound," which is to be given December 10.

The Dramatic Council provided ushers for the Ruth Bryan Owen lecture at the College last night. Miss Cecile Gist of Albany had charge.

GUESS WHO?

The character in last week's "Guess Who?" corner was Katherine Gray.

This week's edition of "guess who" is an upperclassman. He has blue eyes, and brown hair, is rather small; he has plenty of pep. He is known for his scholastic ability, and is a promising lawyer. You can find him at the dormitory most anytime—and girls "say he's the cutest little thing."

Twins in College.

M. S. T. C. can boast of the fact that there are several twins attending the College at the present time. While a complete survey has not been made the following have been mentioned as making the twin honor roll: Neva and Nina Bruce, Maryville; Madgel and Marjorie Peniston, Maryville; Harold and Richard Fields, Maryville; and Raymond and Leroy Rickman, (Raymond is in school), Maryville.

Opera Is Staged

The Dramatics Club had charge of the staging and lighting for the opera "Peter Rabbit," which was given in such an entertaining manner by the Association for Childhood Education in assembly last week.

Sigma Mu Delta

Gamma chapter of Sigma Mu Delta invites students and faculty to see their home at 103 West Seventh on Thursday, November 12, between 4:00 and 8:00 p. m.

Tradition has it again—and now another cane has come into existence. Though taken from an ordinary hickory tree, on an ordinary Northwest Missouri farm, this hickory cane is well on its way to fame and if the story of its travels is recorded it will no doubt be an unusually interesting tale of friendly inter-collegiate rivalry which will kindle the imagination and hold attention.

Briefly the story is this: some time ago President Lamkin secured a piece of hickory wood from the farm in Harrison county on which President Eugene Fair, of Kirksville S. T. C. was born. This was brought about through the assistance of a niece of President Fair, who was in school here.

The piece of wood was dressed into a strong cane in the Manual Arts department of the College. The origin of the stick and the record of the Bearcat vs. Bulldogs football games have been inscribed on it and President Lamkin recently sent it to President Fair who is to keep the cane until the Bears beat the Bulldogs, when it is to come back to the College here. Each year the team that wins is to have possession of the emblem of superiority.

President Fair's letter dated Nov. 8, in his own handwriting, to President Lamkin, acknowledging the receipt of the cane is as follows:

"My Dear President Lamkin:

"I have the stick and surely appreciate getting it. In the first place because of your thoughtfulness in providing it.

"In the second place because it represents contests north of The River—and lastly because the very wood of the stick brings me always to the hillside, where father and I had many a happy walk.

"I am sure whoever wins on Wednesday—everyone will exclaim, 'What a game!'"

Pep Meetings Are Being Conducted For Football Game

Pep meetings between classes were in order today at the College, while for tonight a big pep meeting with speeches, band and everything, is to hold sway at the College Gymnasium. After the pep meeting the plan is for a ballgame band and parade to do the town. There will also probably be a bonfire stunt.

Every one in the town or community is invited tonight at the College, to help the Bears get up steam for the battle tomorrow.

The Dramatic Club

The Dramatic Club held its weekly meeting in Social Hall Thursday, Nov. 6. An excellent program, under the supervision of Jerome Smith was presented. The subject was the Chinese Theater.

Mrs. H. G. Dildine talked on her experiences in China and with the Chinese Theater. Miss Cleola Dawson of the Washington High School presented Misses Genia Logan, Dorothy Henderson, Alice England and Doris Kendall in a Chinese dance. Miss Emma Ruth Bellows accompanied them. "The Flower of Yiddo" a one act play with the following cast was presented:

Rami—Joe Arnold
Salina—Bonnie Malson
Musine—Margaret Noble
Turphoon—Marjorie Drake

Alpha Phi Sigma Initiation.

Thirty-one students suffered informal initiation into Alpha Phi Sigma, scholarship fraternity of the College Thursday evening, November 5. The new members were required to bring an umbrella, two safety pins, a pillow case, and a nickel.

Glenn Duncan, president of the organization, officiated at the ceremony. He seemed to have no trouble in finding things for the neophytes to do. Some of the participants in seeking the answers to requested riddles, displayed considerable lack of information concerning items of significance on the campus, for instance, the location of the silver birches, "Mike's" monument, the first parking sign north of the east door and the location of the frieze in the administration building.

Forensic Union

At Forensic Union last week Jerome Smith gave a talk on Parliamentary law. The remainder of the hour was spent introducing measures and trying to catch the temporary chairmen on their Parliamentary Procedure.

Miss Doris Wallace, fiscal secretary is making plans for the Forensic Union fall party, this Friday night, Nov. 13. All members are invited.

ANNOUNCEMENT

There will be no "off periods" during the week beginning Monday, November 8 and during the week beginning November 23. The College will not be in session on Friday, the 27.

The President Says

The State Teachers Association meets in St. Louis this week. It has an honorable record of more than fifty years of service to the Children of Missouri. It faces a situation at this time in which it may render still greater aid to schools and to the state.

College students who are to become teachers should recognize the opportunity which comes through union of effort in voluntary organization of teachers. They do not exist solely or primarily to advance the interests of teachers, but their chief aim is the betterment of the school system. For thirty minutes on Saturday morning, the new school laws will be discussed, but no general department or division program lists a topic dealing with salaries, or tenure or retirement. The Assembly of Delegates may consider some of these questions. But the Assembly is composed of about eight hundred, while the thousands who are there the rest of the week will give attention to matters which are immediately concerned with better teaching.

And if better teaching is had, will not the real purpose of Teachers Associations, as well as of the Schools, be served?

Uel W. Lamkin.

Over the Library Desk

The November issue of the "News Letter" of the Missouri Library Commission, published at Jefferson City, contains a full account of the meeting of the Missouri Library Association meeting held at Cape Girardeau, Oct. 29-31.

According to the article, distance doesn't seem to bother Missouri librarians. There were 102 librarians and board members registered. Of this number 53 were from 39 public libraries, 25 were from 15 school and college libraries, 16 were board members and 8 were visitors or in charge of exhibits.

The "News Letter" gives the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College, credit for representatives traveling the greatest distance.

Good food, good fellowship, an attractive hotel, a reception, supper, football game, automobile ride and, dinner for college librarians—given by Miss Sadie T. Kent, Librarian of the Southeast Missouri S. T. C. and her staff added to an interesting and profitable program.

Miss Jessie Gay Van Cleave, Specialist in Children's Literature of the American Library Association, Chicago, who addressed the association meeting here in Maryville in 1926, was one of the principal speakers. Miss Lucile Brumbaugh, State Teachers College, Maryville, was elected treasurer.

Faculty Members Go to St. Louis

M. S. T. C. Instructors Will Lead Groups at State Teachers Convention.

Several members of the faculty of the College are departmental chairmen and are on committees of the Missouri State Teachers Association, which holds its sixty-ninth annual meeting at St. Louis, November 11-14.

Homer T. Phillips, head of the department of education, is a member of the committee on association organization and procedure. Mr. Phillips is scheduled to speak on "Required Education Courses for Elementary School Teachers," at a meeting of college teachers of education.

Miss Hettie Anthony, head of the department of home economics is a member of the committee on sociology, and is vice-chairman of the department of household arts and science.

Leslie G. Somerville, of the extension department, is chairman of the department of county superintendents and rural schools.

Miss Chloe Millikan, of the education department, is chairman of the kindergarten-primary department.

Charles R. Gardner, head of the College Conservatory of Music, is chairman of the department of music for the state teachers' association.

Orville C. Miller, head of the department of speech, is chairman of the association's department of speech.

Many members of the College faculty, including President Lamkin, Dr. Mehus, Dr. Hake and Mr. Dieterich are planning to attend the state meeting next week. Miss Elizabeth White and Bert Cooper are the official delegates of the College to the meeting.

A faculty breakfast for all the Missouri state teachers' colleges will be held November 13, at the Statler Hotel as a part of the many social activities of the state meeting.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, who spoke in Maryville Monday night, is one of the highlight speakers on the convention program. Others are Private Harold Peat, who spoke here a few years ago; Miss Florence Hale, who spoke at the district teachers' meeting here last month; Dr. Glenn Frank, Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Dr. Charles H. Judd, Albert Edward Wiggam and others.

Data on Florida Tour Can Be Had at College

Pictorial folders giving complete information concerning the eight day Sunnyland Collegial Tour of Florida starting Saturday, December 26, 1931, and ending Sunday, January 3, 1932, are now out and can be had by those interested in receiving them by writing to Mr. LaMar at the College who is authorized to make reservations for those who decide to make the trip, or by writing directly to Carl Richard Brick, director of the tour, at 709 Walnut st., Kansas City.

The midwinter educational and recreational tour, sponsored and planned especially for Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma Teachers and students is approved by four Missouri teachers colleges and a score of other Missouri, Kansas, and Oklahoma Colleges.

Upperclass Girls Win Hockey Tourney.

Thursday evening, the final game of the W. A. A. Hockey tournament was played. The Junior-Senior team defeated the Sophomore team by a score of 3-1. Miss Weiss and Miss Marsh refereed the game.

Paint Scenery for "Outward Bound."

Harold Knox of Maryville and his crew consisting of Robert Wamsley, Maryville and Joe Arnot of Princeton are painting the scenery for "Outward Bound," a mystery drama of "the life between," which is the Dramatic Club production to be given at the College, December 10. Harold Knox is scenic artist for this play, taking the place of Carl Le Roy Fisher, who has had charge of this work in recent plays, Jerome Smith, of Des Moines, Ia., will act as technical director.

ANNOUNCEMENT

STROLLER

The Stroller, in visits to campuses of other colleges and universities, has noted that practically all institutions have their buildings named in honor of some personage whose memory is revered about the place. Now what about our College? All we have is "The Administration Building," "The Power House," "Residence Hall," "The Gymnasium," "The President's Residence,"—nothing in any way suggesting originality.

The Stroller, though making no claim to brilliant originality, makes the following suggestions, just to put a little "feeling" and individuality into our campus, as well as to coin some new words to put in future catalogs of our Alma Mater. Would anything be more pleasant to the ears of the old timers than to hear of "Gle Gymnasium?" And why not "Hutchinson Hall" for the dorm? Wouldn't room 205 be much more easily remembered as "Uncle Charlie's Sanctum," and why not speak of the "Foster Towers?" The timekeeper would long be remembered as the "Meredith Clock," and nothing would be more fitting for a powerhouse with such a high chimney than "Short's Emporium." Let's not forget "Freshman Football Field" in memory of the boys who pounded rocks on the new track in place of gym classes, nor should we omit the "Taylor-Fries Steps" at Hutchison Hall.

In the category most of necessity be included Nell's office (don't forget that there are two offices there), the Geo. Walter Allen Museum, and the Painter Lounge. Stalcup Hodgkinson, and St. John, Inc., are firmly enough established to deserve a niche in the hall of fame. It is rumored that the auditorium steps will soon be dedicated to the Pate-Davis partnership, though no definite name has yet been suggested. The Joe Trullinger bus lays claim to fame from years and years of reputable service, and Childress Park honors that faithful namesake who for so long left his car sitting there between 8 and 10:30 each evening.

Though the dedication ceremonies are scheduled for an early date, there are several famous campus spots yet lacking a name, and the Stroller invites suggestions for points of interest he has overlooked.

It has been rumored about the campus that Fortie Sandison and Dick Barrett have offered their services for a little prize fight, the proceeds to go to charity.

Johnny Lisle has come to be known better as "Quigley," since the District basketball tournament last week.

The Stroller was shocked last week while crossing the road to see a terrific whirlwind of dust coming up the street accompanied by an unearthly noise. He jumped behind a tree, pulled in just in time to see seven wild and shouting women rapidly approaching in a tin-can looking contraption, on which was written with chalk three M's up sideways. The Stroller thought, the M's stood for Maryville, but consistent research revealed that the inscription meant Sigma, Sigma Sigma (I heard you the first time).

Three new sub-rosa organizations have been reported on the campus concerning which little evidence is available. The names of the groups are: Eta Pecca Pie, Delta Gama Poker, and the "X" Club. The services of Hawshaw, Sherlock, and Watson are solicited.

Crucial Battle Faces Bearcats

Team Looks For Full Support of Student Body in Game With Kirksville Tomorrow.

If there ever was a time when the Bearcats are looking for the support of the students, it is tomorrow when they enter a football game with the Kirksville Bulldogs here for the championship of the M. I. A. A.

A year ago when the Bearcats were given the edge they were defeated at Kirksville and the year before victory was snatched away from them by a narrow margin in a harrowing game.

This time however, all the factors combine to give the Green and White warriors a chance to defeat the Don Faurot proteges and the indications are the student body will be on hand Wednesday to help the Bearcats. There is no week-end to attract the students away from Maryville and besides this is the final game on the home gridiron.

Bearcats in Good Shape.

Coaches E. A. Davis and Henry Iba will present their strongest line-up of the season and several players who have been on the hospital list have recuperated enough to play Wednesday. Don Sheetz, backfield man, Glen Mafr, end, Wilbur Stalcup, end, are in shape to play and Pop Hodge thinks his leg is improving.

Those who attend this game will have the opportunity to see nationally known sports official work. E. O. Quigley and Ed Cochrane, who have officiated big games from coast to coast will referee and umpire respectively.

Kirksville, like Maryville, is undefeated as yet and will come here rested as they did not have a game last week. They will have plenty of supporters, as the boys and girls pep squads, the College band and many students and townspeople are planning to attend the game here.

Records show that "Maryville" and Kirksville have met fourteen times since 1908. The Bulldogs have won twelve times and Maryville but twice.

Defeat Tarkio Eleven.

The Bearcats 25 to 0 victory over the Tarkio eleven Friday night, Nov. 6, before a large homecoming and Dad's Day group, at Tarkio, places the Bearcats out in the lead in the race lasting over a period of years.

The Bearcat lineup:

Hodge, lg; R. Dowell, lt; Sullivan, lg; Ruth, c; W. Dowell, rg; Hedge, rt; Mahood, re; Milner, qb; Stigall, lt; Hodgkinson, rh; Fischer, fb.

Substitutions: Maryville—Shelden for Mahood, Smith for Sullivan, Phelps for Stigall, D. Sheetz for Phelps, Mahood for Hodge, Sullivan for Smith, Phelps for D. Sheetz, Dunham for W. Dowell, Smith for Sullivan, Moore for Ruth, L. Sheets for R. Dowell, Stalcup for Shelden, Marr for Mahood, D. Sheetz for Phelps, Egdorf for Hedge, Mitzel for Milner, Furse for Hodgkinson, Rice for Egdorf, Parker for D. Sheetz.

Stores to Close.

The Maryville business houses will close tomorrow afternoon, November 11. This will probably mean that a great many more boosters for the Bearcats will be out to see the Bearcat vs. Bulldogs game at 2 p. m.

Even the M. S. T. C. Yell Leaders have their troubles. Minnick and Barrett say that they retired early Sunday night but couldn't sleep for trying to think of ways and means to help the Bearcats tomorrow afternoon.

The First Bearcat War Whoop rang out clear and full of meaning Monday morning at exactly seven minutes until nine o'clock. Another one came out firm and clear and just as full of meaning, at exactly five minutes until nine o'clock . . . ditto for the other hours of the day . . . ad infinitum . . . Monday . . . Today . . . TONIGHT!

Be There!

All Growlers are urged to wear their uniforms and sit in the special section provided for them at the Bearcat-Bulldog game Wednesday, November 11.

good people who are always trying to protect the State's pocketbook and who have charged that we are spending far more than we should on education. The teachers convention at Kansas City endorsed without qualification the Survey Commission's recommendations in regard to education in this State. The recommendations have been made but they have not all been carried out. It is the duty of all those who are interested in the cause of education to keep in touch with the Legislature, in order that the welfare of education may not be lost sight of in the periods of prosperity that are sure to come. Our Democracy is founded on general education and we must at all costs preserve it.

Edison's Eldest Son, Left Out of Will, Declares He Won't Join in Litigation

Thomas A. Edison, Jr., eldest son of the late inventor, wrote the following article about his father shortly after announcement was made that William Edison, a younger son, intended to contest a part of the Edison will. Thomas A. Edison, Jr., announced at that time that he would not join his brother in the contest, saying that he had loved his father too much to question any act of his. Two other sons, Charles and Theodore, were the chief beneficiaries under the will.

(Copyright, 1931, by Associated Press)
West Orange, N. J., Nov. 10.—(AP)—Thomas A. Edison was not the cold-blooded genius often portrayed in the public prints.

He was imbued with a human side that was known to us children as being a forceful and impressive as was his inventive mind.

To me, he was an ideal father; very sympathetic, lovable, dutiful and above all most considerate of the happiness and safety of his children.

The world knew him as a man who had devoted his life towards conceiving ideas which when worked out were of great benefit to the welfare and comfort of the universe and its populace.

Loved His Children.

Those who read and heard of him had a fixed picture in their minds of an indefatigable worker, one who was so deeply engrossed in his formulas and experiments that he had little or no time for any diversions.

But only his immediate family and close acquaintances knew of his love and ardor for his children; the pleasure he took in conceiving original games and pastimes for his boys and his friends; his genuine delight for his children, especially when he defeated one of us; the pleasure that a "small stakes" game of poker held for him; his extreme and deep interest in the physical as well as educational side of young men, and his boyish exuberance when around the Christmas tree with his children.

These are just a few of the intimacies of the other side of my father's life.

Helps Boy to Win.

While I was a stripling of six years at Menlo Park, father had erected on our grounds a fifteen foot pole. At the top was a coin.

The boy who "shinned" to the top was given the coin. My friends were more successful than I, and father was a little disappointed. One day he rubbed something on the knees of my short pants to cause a friction on the pole. I reached the top easily after that and was a regular winner.

When I was old enough to go to school in Metuchen, N. J., father walked to the schoolhouse with me every day and called for me at the end of the session. The distance was about two miles and we walked over railroad ties. Later he bought a horse and a carriage for us to ride to school in. He named the horse "Colonel." Shortly after several trips back and forth, with father holding the reins, "Colonel" learned the route by heart so father no longer made the trip. But he had men posted along the road to make certain nothing happened to the three of us—myself, "Colonel" and the buggy.

Bought Many Clocks.

After school we anxiously awaited father's homecoming for he always brought us something. Usually it was an alarm clock—he used to buy them in half dozen lots—or a steam engine which ran by an alcohol flame. We'd take the clocks apart, with father supervising. He was proud of us until the main spring went flying across the room and broke several articles on a table. When the act was repeated I noticed father did not bring home alarm clocks again. The same was practically true with the steam engines. Instead of using the alcohol flame properly, we burned about everything we could, mostly towels, and he decided it was a little too dangerous and ended that, too.

The greatest thrill of my life was my first ride on an electric railroad train with father. He sat alongside of me and held me close so that I would not fall off. I will always remember the grip of his strong arms.

Interested in Sports.

While father was interested in the physical well being of young folks he paid little attention to himself, as is well known. In fact he abused himself physically. Nourishment and sleep were secondary. Many a morning I arrived at the laboratory and found him, after being up all night, eating a large pie and drinking milk for his breakfast.

Father always had a field day for his employees here. He never missed one that I can recall. He was interested in sports, although he seldom participated in any. But his principal duty on those days was to throw the first ball at the start of a baseball game.

I loved my father as the dearest and most God-like parent a man could have; as a genius with the world sharing his pride. Father will ever live in the light of the world, but to me he will live as a boy filled with boyish pranks, a devoted father overflowing with ideals of sacred home life.

Action Without Harm Whenever Constipated

Here's a way to be rid of constipation and its ills—a way that works quickly, effectively, but gently.

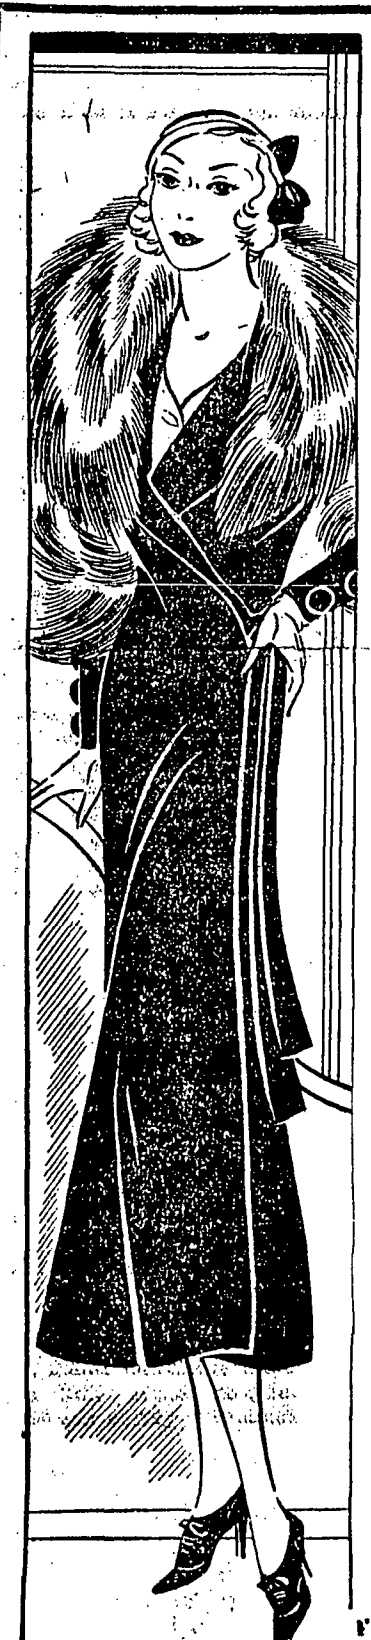

A candy Cascara at night—the next morning you're feeling fine. Breath is sweetened; tongue cleared; biliousness, headaches, dizziness, gas vanish. Repeat the treatment two or three nights to get the souring waste out of your system. See how appetite and energy return; how digestion improves.

The action of Cascara is sure, complete, helpful to everyone. They are made from cascara, which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. All drug stores have the 10c boxes.

PAIN IN YOUR SHOULDER?

Use Tysmol for Relief

Knife-like jabs of pain in the vicinity of the shoulder blade are generally due to neuritis, brought on by exposure to draughts or sudden changes of weather. In some cases there is stiffness or soreness in the muscles, making it difficult to raise the arm. The safest and easiest way to relieve such an attack is to apply a small quantity of Tysmol over the affected area. This soothing, healing preparation is quickly absorbed through the pores and carried to the throbbing aching peripheral nerves. The pains usually stop at once, and in a very short time the last trace of soreness should disappear. Tysmol is absolutely harmless—free from dope. Recommended for all forms of nerve pain, whether caused by neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism. Sold by leading druggists. Always on hand at Maryville Drug Co.

Greatest Bank Holdup Was Work of Big Syndicate

Gus Winkler's $600,000 Bid For Freedom Uncovers Dramatic Story.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—(P)—The story of a hunt for the $2,500,000 loot taken in the greatest bank robbery of all time, and of a desperate bargain driven by a gangster for his freedom was told today.

It begins with the sacking of the Lincoln National Bank and Trust company in the Nebraska capital, Sept. 17, 1930, and the story is still unfinished.

Perhaps it is told too soon. For Nebraska has not yet accepted the bid of "Gus" Winkler, pal of the Capones and Fred Burke, to purchase his immunity from prosecution with the return of all but a pittance of the stolen bonds. And, with the telling before the bargain is struck, those who treated with the emissaries of this highly organized bank looting syndicate wonder how safe are their lives and the lives of Winkler and his confederates.

Activities Traced.
Upon Max Towle, county attorney at Lincoln, the bankers and Attorney General C. A. Sorenson rests the responsibility for taking or leaving Winkler's tender.

Operatives of the "Secret Six," crime-fighting body set up by Chicago businessmen, and of the Illinois Bankers Association, traced the devious paths the year's investigation has followed. The investigators found traces of international alliances among the bank robbers, and counted up a toll of around $5,000,000 taken in 25 major robberies since 1925 by these allies—the Burke-Winkler gangs, the Sheltons of southern Illinois, Fitzgerald of Minneapolis, and, more remotely related, the Fleagles of Colorado. Here and there the investigators discerned traces of interrelations of these gangs, and blamed the famous Denver mint raid on one affiliated band.

Trail Leads to Capone.
Again and again the trail led to the Capone headquarters, as when Winkler in the Lincoln cell said to an Illinois bank representative: "Make the bond as high as you like. Make it $500,000 if you want to, I'll get out. The 'Big Boy' is back of me."

The detectives wonder whether it is not worth much to the Capones, as they trundle off to prison, to have Gus free to come back and take the helm.

Educated Peoples Are Best Buyers of World's Goods

EDITOR'S NOTE—The second of a series of articles prepared by J. Leslie Lawing, superintendent of the Maryville public schools, in connection with Education Week appears here today.

Educated People Are Best Customers
It is the educated people who are the greatest consumers in the world today. One need not look for proof of this statement. The wants of primitive man are few and simple; advertisements for fine furniture, fashionable clothes and fancy groceries stir him not. Educate him and his wants increase. At his meals a table, knives, forks and chinaware replace the savage use of tooth and nail. He wants tailored clothes instead of skins of animals, a house instead of a cave, a cook stove instead of a bonfire.

Education constantly lifts the standard of living. A high standard of living increases the wants and needs of people. This interplay of forces is going on all about us.

The Russian Communist experiment would be an impossibility in a country with well educated citizenry as in America or England. The Russian people are very primitive, they have never been educated to the use of modern conveniences and the blessings enjoyed through private ownership of property. Russia today is not a large consumer of manufactured products nor will she be until her people are educated to a higher standard of living.

In the United States alone in 1929 there were over 20,000,000 telephones interconnected in and with the Bell System. Fifty-nine per cent of all telephones are used in the United States. Although electric household refrigerators have been built for many years, few were sold prior to 1923. At the end of 1924, 70,000 machines were in use; at the end of 1925, 80,000; 248,000 in 1926; 468,000 in 1927; and by the end of 1929, 1,850,000. A total of 26,616,000 motor vehicles were registered in the United States in 1929, including 23,122,000 passenger automobiles. It is now reported that there are 13,478,000 radios receiving sets in the United States or approximately one set for every other family.

The facts concerning the educated consumer have long been known to economists. Hadley in 1896 pointed out, "The greatest gain from public education lies in the fact that a people which grows up with wide views of life develops wider demands for consumption."

Again Fairchild in 1930 points out, "The economic superiority of the United States and other leading nations of the world, as equally the economic inferiority of such nations as China, and India, is without doubt, largely to be ascribed to the difference in education."

The importance of education in creating markets is not likely to be overestimated. Furniture, real estate, medicine, books, music, food, buildings, transportation, communication and all the goods and services which modern industry creates and distributes, can be sold in present quantities and qualities chiefly because of the demand which is created and sustained by an educated people.

If You're Afraid of Blood Pressure

Almost every case of apoplectic stroke is preceded by spells of indigestion and dizziness so—
If you are beginning to be troubled by slight digestive upsets—if you have pain or distress after eating—if you suffer from sick headaches or dizzy spells—

Start taking a tablespoonful of Dare's Mentha Pepsin before meals. By replenishing your scanty gastric juice and easing the load on a tired stomach, Dare's keeps your stomach from getting out of order.

No conscientious druggist would pretend for a moment that any stomach remedy could absolutely prevent apoplexy. But he will tell you that by keeping your digestion running smoothly, you are doing much to lessen the danger of an attack.

Gaugh & Evans and all good druggists guarantee Dare's to overcome indigestion or money back.

THE FORUM'S Open Column

Report of Tax League.
Maryville, Mo., Nov. 8, 1931.

Editor Forum:

The check-up Saturday showed about one-third the petitions returned, carrying about 1500 signatures. The same ratio if maintained would give 4500 signers. But some districts are slow about calling meetings or circulating petitions, while others are calling for the mass meeting. We realize that this is a very busy time; also that some have received petitions who for some reason do not feel free to call the meeting or circulate them. In such cases this only postpones the date of the mass meeting, as such districts are calling for petitions to be circulated.

We mailed out ten on such requests last week. In one case a petition was returned with four names. A party from the same district called for one, and returned it in a few days with 40 signatures.

So you can see that failing to call meetings or circulate petitions by those into whose hands they have fallen only postpones the finish of the canvass, as others must be sent into those districts. Therefore I am requested by the board to urge all those to whom petitions were mailed to call meetings or circulate them, or see that they are placed in the hands of those who will do so. That all may have the opportunity to sign, who wish to, as quickly as possible.

No one is paid for this work, nor shall be. Everyone is interested in cutting out all unnecessary expenditures just as much as the members of the board. That has made it possible for all to help in the work.

Saturday's Forum points out the fact that the national budget has been reduced by $350,000,000. Proportionate savings can be made in state and local expenditures, if we gave a little of our time and effort. Will we do it? I believe we will.

Sincerely,
J. B. SHIELDS, Chairman.

High School Notes

A meeting of the Commercial Club was held this morning. The program was opened by a piano solo, "Stars and Stripes Forever" by Doris Wray. Leon Hazelwood gave an oration. The poem "In Flanders Field" was read by Dorothy Dowden and "Our Answer to Flanders Field" by Max Seyster. Rev.

V. C. Clark, pastor of the First M. E. Church gave a talk on "Religious Education." The meeting was closed by the group singing "America Too Beautiful." The Dramatics Club met this morning. Readings were given by Lucille Lett, Mildred Shades and Pauline McFarland. Three stories were represented by playlets. The casts for these were: Jean Montgomery, Helen Kerr, Virginia Coe, Virginia Watt, Clara Lippman, Dorothy Sandison, Harry Lyle and Edwin Sutton. The rest of the program consisted of acting by various members of the club, the parts being suggested by cards which were handed out at the meeting. Classes at the Maryville high school will be held from 8 a. m., until 1 p. m., when they will be dismissed in observance of Armistice Day.

Bearcats Grimly Await Game With Kirksville Team

Short Skull Practice Is Held To Key Eleven Up For Battle Tomorrow.

A short skull practice was about the only thing done yesterday afternoon by the Maryville Bearcats in preparation for their game tomorrow afternoon with the Kirksville Bulldogs. The men suited up and went out on the field for dummy scrimmage, but it began to rain soon after they got out, so they came back into the gymnasium for mental work.

In the short time the Bearcats were out they limbered up by going down the field under punts. H. Fischer was booting the ball high and far, giving the men plenty of time to get down the field. Fischer's kicking will play a big part in tomorrow's game. After the limbering up, a defense was set and the varsity team took the ball in dummy scrimmage, but after one or two plays the rain started falling.

The Bulldogs are scheduled to leave Kirksville this morning. They are expected to drive to St. Joseph today, and remain there tonight. The Bulldogs will remain in St. Joseph most of the morning, eating a light lunch and driving on to Maryville shortly before game time.

A Crucial Test.
The game tomorrow is the all-important struggle in the M. I. A. A. and the eyes of Springfield, Warrensburg and Cape Girardeau will be on the outcome of the battle. The game will just about decide the championship of the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association. If Kirksville wins, the title is theirs for the fifth consecutive year, for they will have finished their Conference competition with three victories and one tie. If Maryville wins, they will have to defeat Warrensburg for a clear claim to the title.

A defeat would ruin the Bearcats' chances for the M. I. A. A. title and stop their undefeated march of this year. Then, too, every member of the first string, except one, has been on the team when they were crowned champions last year, and several of them were on the team when they were named out of 746 the year before.

The Bearcats will have to be fighting mad to defeat Kirksville, for Coach Don Parout has to fight to the last ditch. The lashing administered by the Bulldogs, twelve times in fourteen games, have put the Bearcats into a frame of mind that bodes no good for the visitors.

Teams Trailing in Big Ten Grid Race Will Meet Saturday

Chicago, Nov. 10.—(P)—The old, old rivalry between Chicago and Illinois, many battles of which were fought for the Western Conference championship, will be renewed Saturday—with each seeking its first victory of consequence this season.

Chicago's football fortunes have been unhappy for the past six seasons, and this campaign appears to be the most unhappy for the undermanned Maroons. Illinois which won only one Big Ten game last season, that from Chicago, already has lost four league contests this year, and things seldom have looked so bleak around Champaign.

Northwestern is figuring on taking Indiana in stride and Purdue is not much worried about Iowa, but Michigan, Ohio state and Wisconsin, are working busily for what promise to be tough assignments. The Buckeyes and Wisconsin meet at Madison, with a chance for a tie for second place in sight. Michigan will meet its neighbor, Michigan state, college and a terrific tussle appears certain. Minnesota, which has a minor assignment in Cornell of Iowa, also is taking it easy, with Michigan coming up a week from Saturday.

Carnera Will Pay Fine and Fight King Levinsky

Chicago, Nov. 10.—(P)—Primo Carnera, Italy's biggest heavyweight, was due in Chicago today to pay a fine and begin training for his ten round bout with King Levinsky, the former fish monger, in the Chicago stadium, Nov. 10.

Carnera has been under suspension by the Italian boxing union and the National boxing association, which has a working agreement with the foreign group, for failure to fulfill an engagement in Italy two years ago. His representatives agreed to pay off the $1,350 fine, and the Illinois state athletic commission yesterday granted the stadium permission to stage the Levinsky bout.

93,000 See Grid Game
Los Angeles, Nov. 10.—(P)—Setting a new high mark for Pacific Coast football 93,000 persons paid approximately $280,000 to witness the Stanford-University of Southern California game at the Olympic stadium here last Saturday. U. S. C., won, 19 to 0. The figure also tops the list for grid games of the nation so far this season.

Dempsey May Get Shot at Schmeling in Madison Square

New York, Nov. 10.—(P)—Jack Dempsey's fight future probably will be settled definitely when the old Manassa Mauler comes here next month for a conference with Jimmy Johnston, head of Madison Square Garden's boxing department.

If Dempsey, now 36, decides his burning storming tour has put him in condition for another comeback, Johnston is prepared to offer him two matches which might lead to a "shot" at Max Schmeling and the heavyweight championship. Johnston said the Garden would not offer Jack any guarantees but an adequate share of the receipts for a bout in February at Miami, Fla., against an opponent drawn from a list of four leading heavyweights—Tommy Loughran, Johnny Risko, Paulino Uzcudun and Tom Heeney.

If Dempsey makes a good showing in the south, Johnston is prepared to match him against Jack Sharkey here in May or June. Granting the Sharkey-Dempsey match could be made and a resulting Dempsey victory, the former title-holder would be paired off against Schmeling in a title bout in September.

Trojans of U. S. C. Will Play in Rose Tournament

Pasadena, Calif., Nov. 10.—(P)—University of Southern California's Trojans, with the Pacific Coast Conference title almost won, have been selected to shoulder the burden of the west in the seventeenth annual Rose Tournament football game here Jan. 1.

While no official statement was forthcoming from the University, it was considered likely the game will be played for charity.

Maysville Man Wins Husking Title
St. Joseph, Mo., Nov. 10.—(P)—Glen Washburn of Union Star placed second in the Dekalb county cornhusking contest near Maysville yesterday and won the right to defend his state title in Grund county Wednesday. Arthur Peterson, Maysville, won the Dekalb county title.

Storekeeper Dies of Injuries

Kansas City, Nov. 10.—(P)—Head injuries suffered when he was attacked in his store Friday night resulted in the death of A. W. Hickman, 72, North Liberty, Mo., storekeeper, here last night. He was found unconscious on Saturday morning. He apparently had been beaten by a robber who took $25. county title.

ALWAYS ALL LEATHER

by William Braucher

DID YOU KNOW THAT—The other night at a Navy dinner in New York, Rear Admiral Phelps arose and spoke in the following manner: "I would like to see the Army-Navy game played again. Why can't we forget the rules and let the boys go out and play it?" There were about 150 Navy men and adherents present. Rear Admiral Phelps was accorded 150 cheers. . . . and here is one more, the 151st cheer, if you want to call it that. "Rah Rah Rah, Phelps!"

Jugs, Buckets, Guns

The football season has not been without its furores. The Little Brown Jug disappeared from the trophy room at the University of Michigan recently. The Old Oaken Bucket was lifted from its resting place in a glass case at the University of Indiana. It wouldn't be greatly surprising should somebody decide to lug away that cannon left by George Washington on the campus at dear old Princeton.

The disappearance of the jug and bucket might suggest to the snister-minded that somebody is planning a party. But surely college students would not perpetrate the prank with this purpose, as only last week several college presidents told me that their entire student bodies had sworn, gazing upon the vin rouge when it is red.

In this connection, however, I have often wondered why some enterprising universities did not establish a bathtub as a trophy, considering that refreshments for at least some of the alumni parties are mixed in that sort of container.

Why Cop a Cannon?

The purpose of stealing the cannon, however, would have to be decorative. You can't do much these days with a cannon of the G. Washington period. It would be very inconvenient even for a Chicago gangster to try to fit a gat of that proportion into a violin case.

The Old Oaken Bucket has disappeared before. It has been in business as a tradition between Indiana and Purdue since 1925 and first was stolen by Purdue students. Purdue finally returned it after Indiana agreed to return the clapper of Purdue's victory bell. There was much ado, even the governor of Indiana taking a hand in the proceedings. Last June the Bucket disappeared at Indiana, and there has been no trace of it.

The Jug, trophy of Minnesota-Michigan gridiron battles has been a tradition for 28 years. Michigan has had it for the last few years, in a case in the library, but I am told that it wasn't even under lock and key.

Dig It Out of Concrete

The cannon was for many years the subject of heated battles between the young men of Rutgers and Princeton. It was as if the student bodies of these two schools engaged in a great game of no-holds-barred football, with the goal lines at New Brunswick and Princeton. Finally Princeton got smart, planted the cannon in a deep bed of concrete on the campus, and vowed to get some sleep. Undaunted, 20 staunch Rutgers men, in the dark of the moon, dug it out of the concrete, loaded it on a wagon and took it home. To thwart Princeton sallies, the cannon would be moved about from cellar to cellar and the men of old Nassau never could quite catch up with it.

Eventually, the original cannon was returned to Princeton, and Rutgers was given another firearm for its campus. So much for that. But it is in the fire of such traditions as these that football rivalries have become so intense. And intense rivalries are what have made the college game what it is.

ABOLISHING THE CITY

Bertrand Russell, British scientist and philosopher, proposed in a recent debate in New York that the state instead of the family ought to bring up children; and while there doesn't seem much chance that his plan will be adopted very soon, one of the arguments he used is worth thinking about. He admitted that parents are usually better at the job of raising children than any state institution can be. But he insisted that this is true only if the parents live in good conditions, and he pointed out that most people nowadays live in cities, and that the small apartment—typical of city life—is very far from being a good place for children. All of this is true enough. No one who has spent all or part of his childhood in a city apartment will deny it. But there may be another way out of the difficulty.

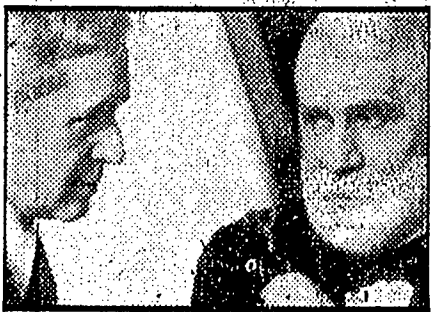

Since the city apartment is a tough place for youngsters, and an ever-increasing percentage of families lives in apartments—why not, instead of trying to abolish the family, abolish the city?

It is very possible that this is an issue which will engage a major share of the public's attention during the next half century.

The shift from a rural to an urban civilization in the United States is a very recent thing, and it isn't entirely finished yet; but it has gone far enough to make it perfectly clear that the city, in a great many ways is not much of a place to live and rear a family.

It is crowded, noisy and dirty. When streets and vacant lots are used for playgrounds—as they have to be, in thousands of circumstances—the results are distressing. Among a child's inalienable rights (and a grown person's, too, for that matter) ought to be the privilege of wandering across open fields and through quiet bits of woodland; yet that privilege is simply unattainable to the average city dweller.

We have, by this time, developed rapid transit facilities sufficiently to enable us to abolish the closely-packed urban residential district, if we choose.

AFTER 40 bowel trouble

Constipation may very easily become chronic after forty. And any continued constipation at that time of life may bring attacks of piles and a host of other unpleasant disorders.

Watch your bowels at any age. Guard them with particular care after forty. Whenever they need any help, remember a doctor should know what is best for them.

"Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin" is a doctor's prescription for the bowels. Tested by 47 years' practice, it has been found thoroughly effective in relieving constipation and its ills for men, women and children of all ages. It has proven perfectly safe even for babies. Made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients, it cannot gripe; will not sicken you or weaken you; can be used without harm as often as your breath is bad, or when your tongue is coated; whenever a headache, bilious, gassy condition warns of constipation.

Already there is a tendency in that direction. So far it is limited chiefly to the fairly well-to-do. Sooner or later it ought to extend to everyone.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

CHEAPENING OF THE RADIO

A subscriber protests, against the cheapening of the radio, and we imagine it represents the views of many thousands of persons who at first hailed the radio with enthusiasm, but who now classify it as a form of nuisance. The Government should never have permitted so precious an instrument for the delight and education of the people to slip into private hands. It was inevitable, once that happened, that radio would suffer from all the evils of commercialization. While it is true that the national chain programs are frequently worthwhile and on occasion of great merit, the great bulk of the broadcasting consists of advertising talks padded out with the wearisome and degrading monotony of jazz music. What a shame that the greatest invention of the age has become merely a kind of noisy market place.

Radio orators are fond of referring to their "huge, unseen audiences," but we agree with our correspondent that, unless some improvement is made in radio programs, the orators may some day discover that the audiences have walked out on them. We have no idea how such improvement can be brought about unless radio broadcasting is put on an entirely different basis. Perhaps we shall yet come to the British idea, which is a system of Government control, financed by an annual fee on radio owners. One of the obstacles to that plan is the difficulty of collecting the fee, as was shown the other day when the British Government was forced to resort to a hoax in order to frighten owners into paying it.

Perhaps the British would not try to dodge the tax if they were forced for a time to endure commercialized programs. With the assurance of programs of artistic, educational and commercial merit in this country, we believe a large proportion of our jazz-ridden radio owners would be glad to pay a small tax. In any case, the subject is one which deserves discussion looking toward the utilization of this marvelous scientific achievement in a manner worthy of it.

20 Looking Back 20 Twenty Years

The annual poultry show will be held in Maryville this year on December 13 to 16. Judge J. H. Saylor, who is secretary of the association, said Monday that more interest is being taken in this show than ever before and already more exhibitors have filed entries than at any past show.

A petition is being circulated this week requesting the city council to provide a regular, uniform system of numbers and to require all houses to be numbered according to the system and to put up legible signs on every street.

Gems of Peril

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Old MRS. JUPITER, wife of the millionaire automobile manufacturer, gives an engagement dinner and dance for her secretary, MARY HARKNESS, who is to marry DINK RUYTHUR, blue-blooded young lawyer.

Mary receives a telephone call from her scapegrace brother, EDDIE, saying he is in trouble and must see her. The house is strictly guarded against "gate-crashers" because Mrs. Jupiter is wearing the famous Jupiter rubies.

Mary arranges for Eddie to be admitted secretly. When she goes upstairs to meet him she finds Mrs. Jupiter robbed and murdered in her room. Seeking Dink, she finds him with CORNELIA TAYLOR, his childhood sweetheart. Dink advises her to keep silent about Eddie until he can locate the boy. BOWEN, reporter for the Star, shows unusual interest in the case. Mary catches BESSIE, a maid, trying to tell Bowen of Eddie's supposed visit.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 8

Mary mastered a wild desire to shout at her future mother-in-law. Could nothing crack that magnificent self-assurance? But perhaps Mrs. Ruythur hadn't known how important it was.

When she did get through to Dink, Mary could hear him growling sleepily, "What time is it? Three-twenty? Oh, damn it, why wasn't I called? Mary? Listen. Get a cab and go to the corner of Third avenue and Street. The northwest corner. Eddie will meet you there at four. You've got half an hour but you may make it if you hurry. Got it? All right, run. I'll come as fast as I can."

She turned from the instrument, her thoughts swirling. Gloves, bag—she must have money enough for the cab. Had she enough? Better call Tom. But Tom had been up all night and had just turned in for a little sleep. The other chauffeur alternated in the role of gardener's helper and was out on the lawn somewhere in "dungeons."

Better get a taxi. Bowen was waiting for an answer to his request that he be allowed to go with her to meet her brother, but Mary motioned him away absently.

"I can't talk to you now," she said hurriedly and went out. The newspaper man hesitated but there was nothing to do but leave so he followed. Under the portico stood a ramshackle car which Mary, in desperation was eyeing speculatively. Empty taxis cabs don't ply the Long Island byroads. She'd have to call up the village, and precious seconds were ticking away.

Bowen, observing her dilemma, advanced toward the car, opened the door and paused with a foot on the running board.

"I'll take you wherever you want to go," he offered. "No fooling, I won't follow you—I'll take you there and run. I've got an edition to catch anyway."

There was no choice. She must hurry or run the chance of missing Eddie. She got in swiftly and they went roaring off toward town at a gratifyingly swift pace. Bowen was mercifully silent, devoting himself to getting the last ounce of speed out of his decrepit car, and once they were in town, to worming it swiftly through the late afternoon traffic.

Block before they had reached the corner Dirk designated, she asked him to put her down. To make up for her obvious lack of trust she thanked him warmly.

"If I do have anything to give the newspapers I'll tell you first," she promised and gave him her hand. Bowen, fishing for a cigarette, and watching her slim figure hurry off, was the victim of mixed emotions. Well, he had said he wouldn't follow but he could kick himself for making the promise. "He was getting to be a sort of a pair of heavily fringed eyes and an artless look served him from the line of duty. Bowen had seen girls who wore that as often as every two blocks. The petition will be presented to the council at their next meeting, on Friday evening, November 17, and probably some action will be taken toward providing a system.

A proclamation, issued by the Governor Hadley declared November 30 as Thanksgiving Day.

F. N. Scott, proprietor of the South Main street Racket store, has sold his interest in that business to J. O. Carter of Bucklen, Mo., who took possession Monday morning.

look of dewy innocence before, in his travels about New York. Later he had discovered to his sorrow that they were "harder cookies" than himself, which was saying a good deal. At least they profited a great deal more from their endeavors than he did from his. From long observation of the New York scene, he had learned that the good, the true and the beautiful are not always what they seem. Yet he was dead sure that Mary Harkness was real. How he knew it he could not say. It was a crime to let her get away. She had promised him the story, tho, so he wasn't cheating the paper, he reflected uneasily. But long experience with such promises had taught him to suspect their worth, alas. She'd probably call him up some day and tell him her dog was lost and consider she'd given him a sensational story. Most people, and particularly, he reflected bitterly, had no idea what the newspaper business was all about.

Well—if he didn't find a telephone pretty quick he wouldn't make the final with the story he did have. He chugged along to the corner, looking for a drug store. There was one across the street.

He had to stand and wait outside the only telephone booth the store afforded. Cursing under his breath, he paced back and forth before its closed glass door. His impatience mounted rapidly as a glance into the dark interior showed him that the young man within was not talking—just standing with his elbow on the shelf, holding the receiver at his ear. Now and then he jiggled at the hook. It was maddening. If he couldn't get his number why didn't the fool hang up?

Bowen's vicious glances presently had their effect on the young man, tired of waiting, for soon, choosing a time when the fuming Bowen was glaring into the depths of a cigar counter, he opened the door of the booth and slipped out.

Bowen caught only a frightened glance as the boy hurried out. A fat woman who had just come in, oozed into the booth, and the reporter gave her a dirty look and set out to find another drug store. Outside he looked about. The boy who had been in the booth stood in the shelter of the doorway, now and then peering furtively out.

Just then Bowen's eye fell on Mary Harkness, standing on the opposite corner, looking anxiously about. Bowen stared appreciatively. What a prize subject she would be for the photographers if it turned out she WAS what he feared she was—a smart little gold digger, too smart to look the part. There would be pictures of her standing, sitting, with legs crossed, and—looking through the bars probably. Hard luck! Why did the mere thought of Mary Harkness tossed in with the rest of the rabble in police court make him feel sick? Little girls with itching palms and "stick-up" friends put themselves in the way of such treatment when they set out to get rich-quick. But the reflection was no comfort to him.

Bowen threw his cigarette into the gutter in disgust. It was hell, but he was falling in love.

Suddenly the girl's face lighted up and she ran forward at sight of someone. For a glad instant Bowen believed it was himself. Then the chap from the telephone brushed against him as he hurried to cross the street. Bowen caught a glimpse of a tanned, boyish jaw, unshaven and hunted gray eyes, and he looked hurriedly right and left before plunging into the traffic. The blue suit was wrinkled and muddled, and he wore no hat.

Mary had rushed to the curb and was holding out her hands. The boy had reached the middle of the street and stood between two rushing streams of cars. A brak in the traffic—no more leap—and he would have reached the other side.

The zeal of the news-hunter awoke in Bowen and drowned out every other voice. There, if you like, went the Jupiter murderer—and here Bowen stood! If ever there was a fugitive from justice, that boy looked and acted the part. The reporter hurried across the street.

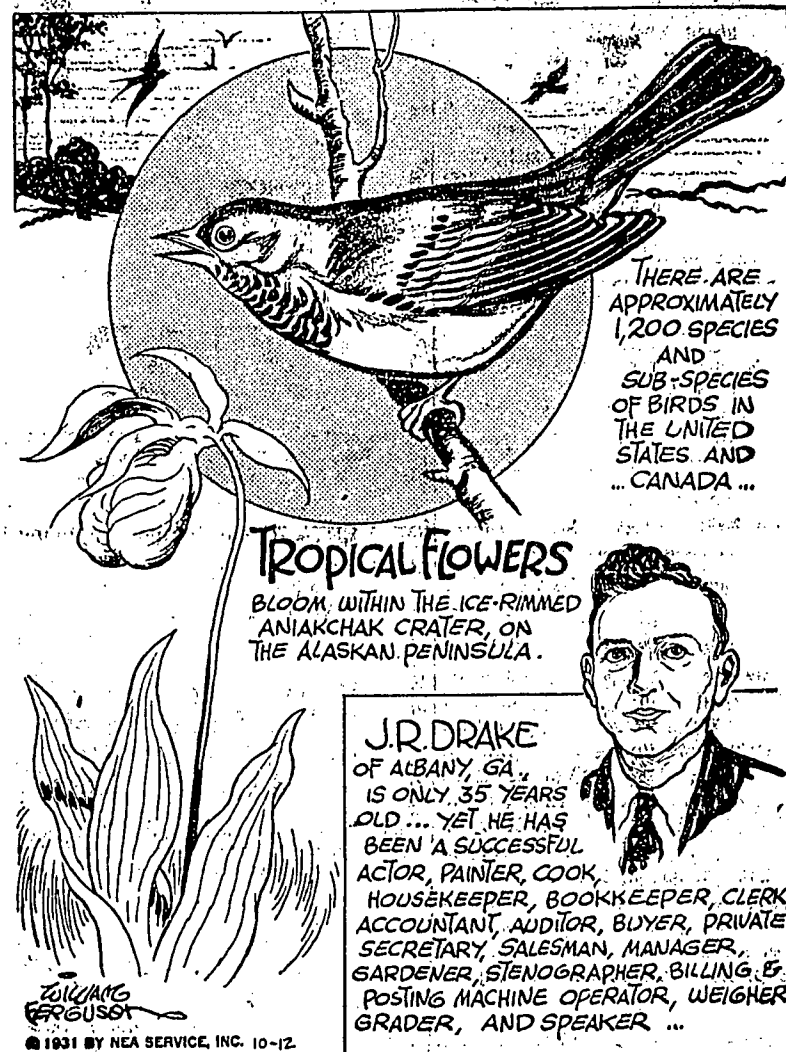

He had gained the middle of the street, too, and was just a few steps behind Harkness, waiting for a chance to go on, when a long black streak swerved out of its place in the line and shot down the middle lane as if heading straight for the boy.

A shout of warning burst from Bowen's lungs. He lunged and tried to grasp the boy but Harkness had heard and jumped back. The car shot past almost in the same instant, swerving deliberately toward Harkness, who stumbled backwards, striking the pavement. Bowen's feet were on the curb and he was holding out her hands. The boy had reached the middle of the street and stood between two rushing streams of cars. A brak in the traffic—no more leap—and he would have reached the other side.

damnable clear... Not careless, but devilishly careful, driving had dealt that death stroke. Someone didn't want Eddie Harkness to get away!

Traffic jammed around them. Mary Harkness, lifting the still body in her arms, lifted stricken eyes that looked about for help.

"Ambulance be here in a minute, lady," someone told her. Bowen was aware that he had been bleating. "He's all right! He's all right!" into her ear in an effort to re-assure her. But as he watched the face of the policeman who had his ear against Eddie's chest, he knew that it was not all right with the boy, and never would be in this world again.

Mary was aware that an arm went around her and lifted her up. She did not look around. Eddie was all she could think of, lying so still, there, looking so white through his tan. She had not kept him with her as she should have done and he was her fault. He was dead and it was her fault. She should never have let him go, it alone in spite of his protestations.

Self accusation redoubled in her, reduced her to the pit of despair. Looking around dazedly as she found a seat in the ambulance, she saw that the man with her was Bowen, the reporter. What did it matter? Everything would come out now. Nothing mattered—Eddie was dead.

As the ambulance clanged through magically cleared streets, the siren sounding its hideous wail, Mary wondered if they had caught the car yet, and what would be done with the driver. Surely it had been caught by this time. Surely God wouldn't let it get away. She prayed, grinding tense palms together. "Catch him! Catch him!"

She slipped her hands out of Bowen's grasp as the boy on the stretcher moved restlessly and mumbled. Dropping to her knees she put her ear close to his lips.

"No use, lady," the attendant warned her. "He's out, whatever he says won't make any sense."

"He mustn't die without telling me—" she insisted.

Again the lips moved, the boy's body arched on the stretcher. "Make him give me my coat!" His voice died away weakly.

Mary looked at Bowen, but there was only pity in his eyes.

"He doesn't know what he's saying," he told her gently. "Mary's eyes filled and she clutched him frantically. "Oh, Eddie-boy, dear, don't die!"

The attendant picked her up and Bowen drew her to the seat beside him. The two men looked at each other over her head. Eddie's fate was plainly written in their eyes.

The boy's lips continued their mumble and the interne, with a half-grin at Bowen, flapped his hand back and forth as if brushing a fly.

"All right, son," he told the boy indulgently. "Funny how it takes them sometimes."

"Where's he got it?" Bowen asked, softly.

"Head," said the other. The boy moved restlessly and again he waved his hand. "He thinks there's a fly bothering around."

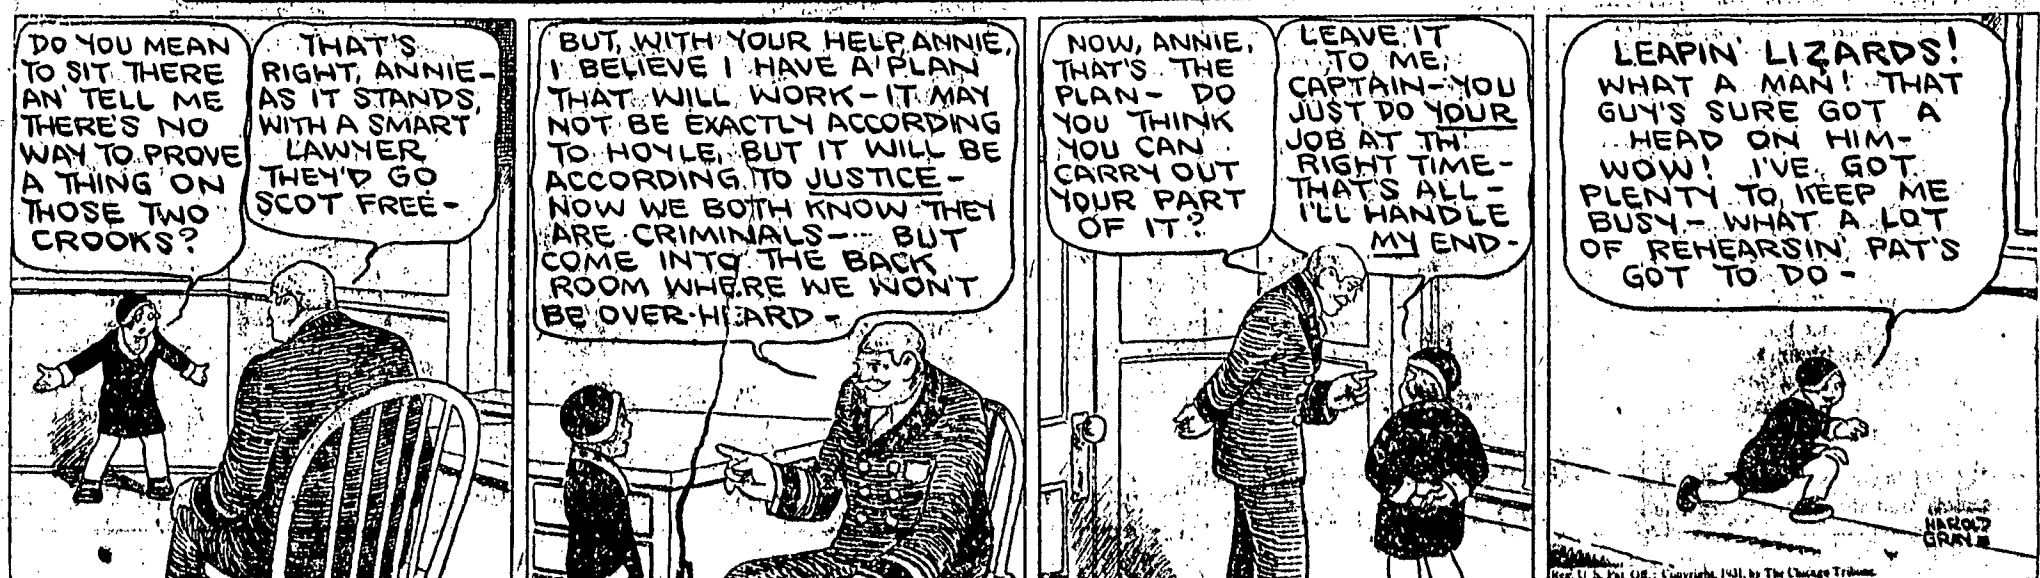

"Queer. Nerve reaction, probably," Bowen answered thoughtfully. "Queer he should think of a fly."

Ducks May Detour Midwest
Kansas City, Nov. 10.—(AP)—Jack R. Cunningham, secretary of the Kansas City Isaac Walton League, believes some wise ducks have set out detour signs in the middle-west this season.

He said he had received word from northern Canada that warm weather had delayed the annual southward duck migration and added: "When ducks do not leave Canada before November 1, they usually cross to the Atlantic coast and go south that way."

Ruth Bryan Owen Talks on Building Better Citizens

The German woman said after she had related the trials and tribulations of her own family during the war. Mrs. Owen said she was glad that her son heard what the German woman had said because he will never forget it.
Sees Hope For Peace.
Mrs. Owen believes that through good citizenship training and by looking upon the countries as neighbors the young people may be able to see that the grave errors of the past are amended.
It will take time, she said, for social responsibility is like building a Republic, it takes generations to construct.

"Idealism and energy," Mrs. Owen said, "are the two factors that drive youth on." And these two qualities, she pointed out, need be developed in all boys and girls by words of encouragement and by showing to them the possibilities of their leadership in the life of their nation.

MARKETS

Grains Decline Sharply on Board of Trade Today

Chicago, Nov. 10.—(P)—Grains fell today like a spent skyrocket, and in some cases dropped as much as 5c a bushel compared with yesterday's top figures. The reaction, experienced trade observers said, was past due, and was largely a consequence of the extreme rapidity and extent of recent gains of 2 1/2c for wheat and rye, with 16c upward flight of corn within a month. Dealings today lacked the magnitude that has been the rule of late, though still beyond the average. Stock market weakness, and moisture relief in domestic winter wheat territory contributed to augmented selling pressure and to curtailed buying.
Wheat closed nervous 2 1/2c to 3 1/2c lower than yesterday's finish. Corn 2c to 2 1/2c down, oats 1 1/2c to 1 3/4c off, rye showing 3 1/2c to 5 1/2c loss, and provisions varying from 27c drop to 5c gain.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—(P)—All grains turned downward early today, influenced by preholiday profit taking and by a letup in aggressive speculative purchasing so conspicuous of late. Trade readjustment in advance of the United States government crop report due after the close were also a bearish factor. Opening at 1c setback to 1/2c gain, wheat later receded all around. Corn started 1/2c to 3/4c off, an dthen continued to sag.
Corn vibrated rapidly in about 1 1/2c limits, with fresh onsets of buying in evidence, but only on declines. Confirmation of frosts in Argentina was a bullish incentive, but more or less nullified by uncertainty as to actual crop damage. Absence of North American wheat export business overnight gave an advantage at times to bears. Canadian reports emphasized drought, the severest on record.
Provisions reflected weakness of cereals.

Stock Market.
New York, Nov. 10.—(P)—The stock market accompanied grains in a reaction today, sagging under profit-taking and closing with a heavy tone. Occasional rallies in the rail issues failed to hold. Activity was well under yesterday's and net losses ranged from one to two points in principal stocks generally.
While bar silver continued to climb, securities and grains fell back before a wave of profit taking. In shares, the rail issues were a firm spot, but elsewhere losses of 1 to more than 2 points were common. The closing tone was heavy. Transfers, however, were less than 2,000,000 shares.

Large Chinese Force Is Massed For New Attack

Japanese at Angangchi Are Outnumbered by Twenty to One.

Sze Appeals to League

China Will Build Up Strong Army Unless League Settles Dispute, Member of Council Declares.

Copyright 1931 by Associated Press. Mukden, Manchuria, Nov. 10.—(P)—Chinese forces outnumbering Japanese troops by twenty to one are massing at Angangchi under General Mah Chan-Shan.

Japanese headquarters is secretive regarding the strength of its own forces, but it is understood on good authority its troops number between 1,500 and 2,000.

Paris, Nov. 10.—(P)—If the League of Nations fails to settle the Manchurian dispute China will build up her national defense to a point strong enough to withstand "external aggression," Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese minister of the League of Nations Council, told the League tonight.

He made this declaration in reporting that China is ready to accept the one year arms holiday proposed by the League on condition that the Manchurian dispute should be amicably settled.

China relies upon the League Covenant and the Kellogg-Brand Pact as the "bulwarks of peace," Dr. Sze said, but if these fail she expects to take care of herself against "foreign enemies." China has asked the League to send 4,000 troops to Manchuria.

Dr. Sze is in Paris for the League Council meeting to be held here next Monday.

MANY REBELS ARE DESAPITATED
Tientsin, China, Nov. 10.—(P)—Chinese police have captured 400 rebels who participated in yesterday's riots and beheaded a number of them on the spot.

They were captured in the native city and dealt with summarily. Several of the ring leaders escaped.

Peiping, Nov. 10.—(P)—Messages from Harbin today reported that Japanese troops had withdrawn seven miles south of the Nen river bridge where they were said to be massing for a fresh advance for Tientsin.

Tientsin, Nov. 10.—(P)—The ominous, hollow booming of a field gun together with frequent bursts of machine gun fire in the area between the Japanese concession and the Chinese city carried threat today of another battle to rival the sanguinary clashes between Japanese and Chinese forces yesterday.

The night was ominously quiet. In the "no man's land" between the concession and the Chinese position the situation was taut as a drawn cord, and likely to snap at any moment.

Has Plan For Manchuria

Eugene Chen Suggests Way Out of Difficulties.

Tokyo, Nov. 10.—(P)—A proposal for complete reorganization of the government of Manchuria, made by Eugene Chen, noted Chinese journalist and statesman, today turned the attention of Japan to China again, rather than to Geneva in the hope for a possible permanent solution of the knotty Manchurian problem.

The proposal, said to have been formulated by the opposition government at Canton was given to the Japanese consul in Canton by Chen before he left for Shanghai to discuss with Nanking leaders a reorganization of the Nanking Nationalist government.

The plan calls for closer cooperation with Japan and expulsion from Manchuria of "greedy and meddling war lords" together with the appointment of a high commissioner by the central government to take charge of Manchurian affairs.

Japan's reply to the "aide memoire" of the United States government on the Manchurian conflict, was dispatched to Washington today.

Baron Kijuro Shidehara, Japanese foreign minister, decided not to suggest publication of the notes of the two governments, although it was believed here he would not object to publication if Secretary of State Stimson wished it.

Official dispatches from Manchuria today denied that General Mah Chan Shan had issued a declaration of war against Japan.

Jumble-Lations

It's tough sledding for us fellows who take the open road," remarked a middle aged man yesterday who was fortunate to pick up an overcoat. "Now if I had some underwear, I'd be fixed for awhile," he added. The Maryville jail, where he stopped over night, has better accommodations than he finds at most towns. Generally he has to sleep on an iron-slat bed that has no covering, the wanderer remarked. The flowers that bloom in the late fall, tra la, got a pretty cool reception last night. Mother Nature has been playing tricks. Our leg reporter sure wears out the shoe leather. Back under some old files were found three pairs of shoes he had discarded, and forgotten. And now comes the merchant, who reading about the absent-minded professor and printer tells about the clerk who threw the nickel the little girl had paid for candy in the sawdust box.

Will Referee Milk Fight
Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 10.—(P)—Sam Bushman, St. Louis attorney, will hear the facts in the proceedings instituted in the supreme court yesterday by Attorney General Shartel against milk producers and distributors in the St. Louis area. Bushman was named a special commissioner by the court late yesterday.

Capone Gangster Is Held as Head of Kidnap Ring

"Dago" Mangano Is Seized as Police Work on St. Louis Abduction.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Lawrence "Dago" Mangano, West Side Capone chieftain was held today as the head of a kidnaping ring that police said kidnapped at least 100 men in the last year.

Mangano and five other men were seized last night in several raids, which one report said were prompted by an effort to locate Alexander Berg wealthy St. Louis furrier, who was kidnapped several days ago and was still missing.

St. Louis, Nov. 9.—(P)—With seven persons, one a woman, arrested here, St. Louis detectives today went to Chicago to question six suspects held in connection with the kidnaping of Alexander Berg, millionaire fur executive, here last Friday evening as he was being driven home in his limousine. One of the six men held in Chicago is Lawrence Mangano, head of the West Side Capone syndicate, and another is Louis Spinelli of New York.

The Chicago suspects were arrested on request of St. Louis police by agents of Chicago's "Secret Six," on a tip from a secret St. Louis anti-crime organization.

Police here were working overtime, without developing any direct line on the identity of the abductors, they said, or the location of the 57-year-old fur dealer, who at 6 p. m., today will have been missing 96 hours. Relatives and friends of Berg are not co-operating with the authorities, police said, but are understood to be negotiating with the kidnapers, Mrs. Berg having received a second special delivery letter from them.

Caraway's Widow May Be Offered Seat in Senate

Jonesboro, Ark., Nov. 10.—(P)—The widow of Thaddeus H. Caraway today appeared the probable choice to fill his unexpired term in the United States Senate after an announcement by Mayor H. J. Bosler she would accept the nomination if it were proffered.

Mayor Bosler made the announcement as a friend of the family and a member of the State Democratic Central Committee shortly after the junior Arkansas senator was buried in a little cemetery here yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Byers and family of Yorktown, Ia., spent Sunday visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harve England.

SHOOT BIG BLACK EAGLE

Shooting a black eagle, that spread seven feet across from wing tips, was one of the experiences of George P. Wright, who with Mrs. Wright returned Sunday from a two weeks' trip in the Texas Panhandle. They visited at the home of Mr. Wright's brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Gies who live near Follett, Tex. Mr. Wright reports that the people of the Panhandle are having a better feeling about conditions since the upturn in the price of wheat, as cattle and wheat are the mainstay of that section.

MacDonald Says Reparations Halt World Recovery

Prime Minister Promises Parliament to Seek General Revision.

King Opens New Session

Meeting Which Began Today May See England Change From Historic Policy of Free Trade.

London, Nov. 10.—(P)—Reparations and war debts schedules combining in a system of "crazy economy" have caused the distressing economic situation in which the world finds itself, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald said today in his first speech before the new parliament.

"As long as the will of man forces an unnatural economic adjustment upon the world, the world never will succeed or prosper," he declared. "It is necessary to get into contact at once—and this is already being done—with the nations chiefly concerned so that we may extricate ourselves from this absurd entanglement of the impossible."

Full Agreement Needed.
He said he attached the highest importance to Premier Laval's visit to the United States, and he expressed the hope it would lead first of all to an understanding between France and Germany.

"In the full and final understanding, however," he said, "every nation involved must be a party to the agreement. That is the policy of this government."

The government had asked for an open mandate to face and solve the problems of currency, credit, balance of trade and budget, he said, and that work had to be done.

KING GEORGE OPENS PARLIAMENT

London, Nov. 10.—(P)—Amid the pomp and glitter of tradition King George V, wearing the crown of state, opened parliament today with a statement that the new government's task is to rescue the nation from its economic difficulties.

Speaking from the great golden throne in the house of lords, his majesty bade the new government Godspeed in its undertakings.

"My people have given you an emphatic mandate," he said in a voice which rang clearly through the chamber, "and we expect you to achieve success."

This afternoon the House of Commons will begin a session which probably will bulk large in England's history. It is not unlikely it will forsake the British policy of free trade and join the ranks of the protective tariff states.

The monarch laid special emphasis upon the benefits which he believes may be produced by next year's disarmament conference.

"My government intends to pursue the policy of peace and goodwill," he said. "They will continue their active interest in the work of the League of Nations, and they will give close attention to preparations for the approaching disarmament conference, a successful result of which would produce great and universal benefit."

Two Years May Be Needed to Complete Bank Liquidation

The circuit court order made Saturday by Judge Reeves to sell approximately $300,000 in notes, second mortgages and deficiency judgments of the Farmers Trust Company, does not mean that the liquidation would be closed in the near future, Lowell L. Livengood, attorney for the state finance department, said today.

Among the $300,000 in notes, are $100,000 charge-off notes, Mr. Livengood said, which the finance department has been forced to carry on the books since the bank closed in April, 1930.

Mr. Livengood said it is the opinion of the finance department liquidating the bank that the cost of keeping the records of these notes, mortgages and judgments, and the cost of collection would more than offset the amount that could be collected. It is for these reasons, he said that the notes will be advertised for public sale in the near future.

It probably will be two years or more before the liquidation of the Farmers Trust Company can be completed, the attorney said, as there are suits from the October term of court which have been appealed to the Supreme Court.

A marriage license was issued this morning by Miss Margaret Norton, recorder, to Ralph Edwin Poole and Alta Artz, both of Harlan, Ia. Miss Norton issued a license to Charles Combs and Ruth Hansen, both of Omaha, Neb. Mr. Combs and Miss Hansen were married by Probate Judge Milton J. Hull.

Field Man For Farm Board Will Speak Thursday

Combined Meeting of Business Men and Farmers to Be Held Here.

A combined meeting of Nodaway county farmers and business men will be held in the basement of the Christian Church here Thursday evening at 7 o'clock to hear an address by J. W. Howard, field man for the Federal Farm Board. A. J. Dinsdale announced today.

Mr. Howard, former president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will discuss the Agricultural Marketing Act in view of current criticism of the Farm Board. Mr. Dinsdale points out that Mr. Howard's discussion is a timely one. The extension service, and Farmers Exchange, and the Producers Produce company are sponsoring the meeting.

Mr. Dinsdale said that the meeting to be held is one of a series Mr. Howard is conducting in Northwest Missouri.

Reservations should be made with Harry McDaniel, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, with the county agent's office, the Farmers Exchange, or the Producers Produce company, Mr. Dinsdale said.

Woman Was Killed For Insurance Is Officers' Theory

Wewoka, Okla., Nov. 10.—(P)—A deserted farm house has drawn the attention of Seminole county officers investigating the killing of Mrs. W. L. Scott, whose body was found yesterday in a motorcar parked on the Frisco railroad tracks at a country crossing.

The woman's husband and his brother, "Red" Scott, both farmers, were held as suspects. Investigators said Scott had taken out a $2,000 life insurance policy on his wife two weeks ago.

Officers who went to the farm house about three miles from the railroad crossing said they found bloodstains, several of the woman's missing teeth and wisps of her hair.

They reported they were convinced Mrs. Scott was clubbed fatally in the house and that her body was placed in the car and driven to the crossing near Sasakwa in an effort to conceal the cause of her death.

The engineer of a Frisco passenger train, Barney McCook, saw the automobile in time to apply his brakes and prevent demolishing the car. Trainmen said the woman's body already was cold.

PAPER AT NOON WEDNESDAY

The Maryville Daily Forum will be issued at noon Wednesday, Armistice Day and the office will be closed the rest of the day.

Gangsters Convicted

Three Are Guilty of Murdering Man in Detroit.

Detroit, Nov. 10.—(P)—Ray Bernstein, Harry Keywell and Irving Milberg were convicted of first degree murder in the slaying of three men in the Collingwood Avenue apartment house gang slaying by a recorder's court jury at noon today.

The three men, said by police to be purple gangsters, were tried specifically for the slaying of Joseph Sutker. The other two victims of the gang killing were Joe Leblovitz and Hyman Paul.

The state's principal witness was Solomon Levine, a friend of both the victims and the defendants, who said he witnessed the shooting after taking Sutker, Leblovitz and Paul to what had been represented as a conference. He named Harry Fleisher, also a reputed purple gangster, as the fourth member of the execution squad. Fleisher has not been apprehended.

The case was given to the jury at 10:18 a. m. today and the verdict was returned at 12:15 p. m.

States' Failure to Redistrict Is Cause of Turmoil

Political Question Mark Hangs Over November Elections.

Leaders Map Campaigns

Legislative Programs Will Shortly Take Shape in Washington—Fight On Tariff Is Considered.

Washington, Nov. 10.—(P)—Congressional reapportionments as a result of the 1930 census has taken the form of a large political question mark hanging over 16 states.

Failure of these states to redistrict has thrown into turmoil the election next November of 200 house of representative and electoral college members, and twice that number of delegates to Republican and Democratic nomination conventions.

The other half of the 32 states whose voting strength was changed by the population count have drawn the new geographical boundaries.

Generally, where states have lost representation failure to redistrict means their entire congressional delegations must be elected at large as are senators. If representation is increased, only the additional members run at large.

To some extent that solves the house problem, but it gives little solace to worried party leaders. No such rule applies to selection of convention delegates, a great majority of which are now elected by congressional districts.

LEGISLATIVE CAMPAIGNS ARE BEING MAPPED OUT

Washington, Nov. 10.—(P)—With the leaders of both parties pouring into the capital, congressional legislative campaigns will soon begin to take more definite shape.

The arrival of the Democratic speakership choice, representative Garner of Texas, and a possible Republican competitor for the honor, representative Tilson of Connecticut, so far followed almost immediately by other stalwarts of both parties.

Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, is expected shortly.

While Republicans, as they return, will in many cases seek out President Hoover to discuss the administration's program, Democrats will do most of their conferring on Capitol Hill. They must chart courses before December 7 in a house of representatives which they expect to control and a senate in which they will apparently be barely in a minority.

They have already given President Hoover a pledge to support the international debt moratorium, which must be ratified within a week after congress convenes, and, in principle, legislation necessary to ease the credit situation of banks with frozen assets.

Representative Garner brought with him from Texas a tax revision program designated to increase and stabilize the flow of Federal revenues.

In addition, his colleagues have for discussion the proposal of representative Rainey, of Illinois, to base a legislative program upon downward revision of the tariff on a reciprocal basis.

Fair and Warmer Weather Predicted For Tomorrow

Fair and warmer weather is predicted for tomorrow, Armistice Day. The weather forecasters predict a hike in the temperatures from the low of 40 degrees last night. There was a 34-degree drop in temperature from the high yesterday, according to the figures of J. R. Brink, weather observer.

The information that the weather will be favorable for the celebration and the football game tomorrow is welcomed by many who intend to see the Kirkville-Benart game.

Don't forget that the fire siren will blow at 11 o'clock and that taps will be blown immediately afterwards on the courthouse yard by George Perrin who was a member of the 20th U. S. Infantry during the war.

Plans For Jefferson Club Dinner Here Formed

The Jefferson Club of Nodaway county is sending out invitations today to a club dinner to be held here at noon November 24 in the Social Service rooms of the M. E. Church, South, in honor of Governor Harry H. Woodring of Kansas and Charles M. Howell of Kansas, chairman of the Democratic state committee, who will speak here that afternoon at the Missouri Theater. Reservations for the dinner should be made by November 20 with Clyde Perkins.

The time of the high school assembly Wednesday morning at which time an Armistice day program will be given, has been changed from 10:40 to 9:54 o'clock tomorrow morning, H. S. Thomas, principal, said today.

Had Told of Threats Missing Man Feared For Life, Associate Says.

Kansas City, Nov. 10.—(P)—D. M. Hollowall, who had been selected as general manager of the airline under promotion by Thad G. Landon who disappeared mysteriously Saturday morning, said today that Landon recently told him his life had been threatened.

Landon did not divulge the source of the threat, Hollowall said but declared "everything is set for you to carry on if anything happens to me. If they get me, you go right ahead with the line for my wife's sake."

The missing man's wallet, together with a note was returned to his home by special delivery mail yesterday. Relatives said today the wallet contained a threatening message to Mrs. Landon and also the threat that the home of his father, Thad G. Landon, was to be bombed.

The note was printed and the package containing the wallet was postmarked Dallas, Texas. Russell Dick, a Kansas City aviator who had been employed to fly a ship on Landon's proposed airline to St. Louis, took off today with Tulsa as his announced destination. He was accompanied by a former government agent. It was understood at the airport that Dick planned to continue his flight from Tulsa to Dallas there to check any possible clues which might solve the mystery of Landon's disappearance.

County to Have Steers, Pigs at American Royal

Four-H Clubbers Have Good Chances to Take Prizes There.

Seven calves and four barrows raised by Nodaway county 4-H club boys and girls will be entered in competition at the American Royal Livestock show at Kansas City. The local livestock will be shipped to Kansas City Thursday where it will go on display on Saturday, the opening day of the American Royal. The livestock will be auctioned off on the following Friday.

In announcing that the fat calves and pigs of this county will be entered in the American Royal, A. J. Dinsdale, county extension agent, said today, "I really think we have a wonderful opportunity in the group of three."

In speaking of the calves in general he said, "These are the best calves we ever have taken to the American Royal."

Of the calves to be shown by the Nodaway county boys and girls, five are Angus and two are Shorthorns. Fay Simmons of Parnell, Ada Burch of Ravenwood, Charles Burch of Ravenwood, Henry Zimmerman of Maryville and Eugene Espey of Maryville will exhibit the Angus calves and Eugene Espey and Garth Espey of Maryville will exhibit the Shorthorn calves. Benjamin Willhoite will exhibit four barrows.

Two county groups of three calves will be shown. The Ravenwood group will show one of the groups and the Maryville boys will have three calves in the other group.

At last year's American Royal, Fay Simmons' calf placed fifth and Eugene Espey showed a Shorthorn that placed fifth. The county group took fourth place.

B. M. CASTEEL UNDER FIRE

Prominent St. Joseph Legionnaire Is Asked to Resign as School Engineer.

B. M. Casteel, chief engineer of the St. Joseph school district, and past state commander of the American Legion, has been asked to resign by the St. Joseph school board, but has refused.

No cause was given by the board for its action. Mr. Casteel, who is well known among the ex-service men of this county, was talked of as a candidate at the last election on the Democratic ticket for the nomination for congress.

The local branch of the American Association of University Women is organizing a circulating book club for this winter. All Maryville women are invited to join. Mrs. Vern Manley is chairman of this project.

The object of the club is to purchase the newest fiction and loaning it to each member in turn for a period of one week.

Veterans Will Get Tickets

Ex-service men who served in the World War and who have put on considerable avoirdupois since 1918 and are unable to squeeze into their uniforms, need not fear they won't be admitted to the football game tomorrow if they are members of the service organizations. At the dinner for ex-service men at the Christian church Wednesday noon identification cards will be issued. College authorities announced today.

Ruth Bryan Owen Talks on Building Better Citizens

Nation's Youth Must Be Instilled With Sense of Responsibility.

Several Hundred Attend

Congresswoman From Florida Speaks in College Auditorium Last Night Before Attentive Audience.

Opening the doors of better citizenship to the youth of the land thus creating a sense of the responsibility in government and appreciation of the sacrifices of the forefathers in its construction, was the keynote of the message of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, Congresswoman of Florida. She spoke last night at the College auditorium before several hundred people.

When Mrs. Owen walked upon the platform, to be introduced by Uel W. Lamkin, president of the College, the audience did not applaud merely the daughter of the noted William Jennings Bryan. They applauded a national figure.

Mrs. Owen's profound interest in better citizenship among American boys and girls is illustrated, as she related it last night by trips to Washington arranged for the "best young citizens" of Florida. Each spring, through her endeavors and with the co-operation of the eighteen counties in her district, from Jacksonville to Key West, thirty-six boys and girls, go to Washington. They are elected on citizenship qualities. The trip is made by special car.

Party Visits White House. Mrs. Owen herself plays hostess and acts as citizenship instructor. The group visits all the historic scenes, is even received at the White House for a personal word of encouragement from the President of the United States. The trip always concludes at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery.

At this scene the boys and girls, selected as the best citizens of their respective communities, are awarded medals in recognition of their honors.

The description of the trip made to Washington by one of these groups, and the effects it had of impressing upon youth the tremendous extent of the national government and the sacrifices of the pioneer to build a solid government, was Mrs. Owen's best interpretation of "opening doors."

Praises Historic Films. Mrs. Owen lauded the movies which have preserved for future generations events of the World War and since. Fifty years from now, she said, boys and girls can see the soldiers as they marched down Fifth Avenue just before embarking for France and they can see the clouds of the great war itself. They can, through the marvels of the film, see fifty years from now, the triumphant smile of Lindbergh after his Atlantic flight.

Through the talking pictures and the radio the great statesmen of the world are heard by all communities. These achievements and the ever-improving fast methods of transportation, she explained, are not making countries of the world a distant something separated by a vast span of water, but are making neighbors of us all. This led up to Mrs. Owen's discussion on peace.

While traveling in Germany, Mrs. Owen said, she and her son stopped at a small shop near Berlin. A German woman, curious of the visitors, asked many questions. The subject of war and its sacrifices developed in the conversation. "When people have a voice as to war there will be no more war," (Continued on page 7)

Finals to Be Saturday

County-Wide Declamation Contests Postponed 1 Day.

The county-wide finals in the declamation contests which were scheduled for Friday in Maryville, have been postponed until Saturday, according to an announcement today by W. H. Burr, county superintendent of schools.

The program of the final events has been put over one day because of so many requests of teachers over the county to hear the finals in declamation and also to see the posters and essays submitted from the various schools of the county.

The poster display will be in the kindergarten room of the Eugene Field school. The declamation contests for the high school students will be held at the Washington school building at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon and the declamation contests for the grade and rural groups will be held in the Eugene Field school at the same time.

All essays and posters should be in the office of the county superintendent not later than Wednesday. All students in the declamation contests should have their names registered at the office of the county superintendent not later than noon Saturday.

Safeguard your investment. Gray's will explain all details.—Adv.
